Agenda and Venue

We are glad to announce that Enago in collaboration with Pontificia Universidad Católica del Perú will be conducting an author workshop for researchers across Peru.

Enago's workshops will be focused on providing practical advice on the important aspects related to manuscript preparation and journal submission as well share some insights on important aspects of peer review. The workshops will provide useful tips to authors on how they should write research papers and increase their awareness of the best ethical practices while submitting their articles to journals for publication.

These workshops will help the audience increase their awareness of the following:

- Understanding key differences between Spanish and English grammar
- Improved understanding of application of English grammar in academic writing
- Understanding how peripheral text should be described in manuscripts
- Increased awareness of the peer review process in academic publishing
- Awareness of fake peer reviews and related challenges for researchers and journals
- Knowledge of ethical practices that need to be followed by peer reviewers and journals

At the end of the workshops, a Certificate of Participation will be issued by Enago.

About the Speaker

Dr. Ernesto Zumelzu

Universidad Austral de Chile
Publication and Training
Consultant, Enago Academy

- Dr. Zumelzu is a distinguished researcher, publishing expert, and material scientist with a career spanning more than 35 years. He is currently associated with the Faculty of Engineering Sciences at Universidad Austral de Chile.
- Dr. Zumelzu has authored, edited, and peer-reviewed more than 50 publications in journals that are indexed in the Web of Science; moreover, he has authored more than hundred publications (book content, conference papers, and project reports) that have been cited in other well-renowned DOAJ-, SciELO-indexed journals.
- He is a fluent Spanish speaker and has used his expertise in preparing scientific manuscripts with high editorials requirements and also to eliminate language complexity for peers facing difficulties with the English language. He has assisted many researchers in preparing scientific manuscripts that need to adhere to strict requirements of international peer-reviewed journals.
- Till date, Dr. Zumelzu has conducted numerous workshops and shared best practices in academic writing and publishing in Latin America, particularly for researchers in Ecuador and Chile. Ha has also contributed to the strengthening of the Inter-University Center for Andean Development, CINDA.
- Dr. Zumelzu is currently a referee/peer reviewer for research and development projects that are funded by the National Commission for Scientific and Technological Research (CONICYT), the National Fund for Scientific and Technological Development (FONDECYT), and the Fund for the Promotion of Scientific and Technological Development (FONDEF) in Chile.
- Dr. Zumelzu has been a research consultant for companies like BHP Billiton, ARAUCO, CODELCO-Chile, and the International Copper Association (ICA). He has also been on the board of experts for Technical Cooperation Program of Developing Countries, which was established for the promotion of research and development by OAS and UN. Dr. Zumelzu was also an evaluator of the MECESUP program in Chile. He is currently a member of the advisory board of the COLAM program of the Inter-America University Organization (OUI).

Workshop Brief

Topic 1: Challenges in Academic Publishing—Role of English Language

For authors and graduate students whose primary language is not English, the most challenging aspect is conveying their research in a manner acceptable for publication in peer-reviewed international journals. Currently, many studies written by ESL authors are rejected by the journal editors themselves and do not even reach the stage of peer review. This presentation will provide researchers important and easy tips for correct usage of English language and grammar in academic writing.

After the presentation, the participants will have more information about the following:

- Awareness of importance of publication in international journals
- Improved understanding of the application of English grammar in academic writing
- Understanding key differences between Spanish and English grammar
- Awareness of key steps for publication in international peer-reviewed journals

Topic 2: The Importance of Peer Review in Academic Publishing

Peer review is one of the most critical processes in academic publishing and continues to have a significant effect on the number and type of studies that get published each year. For well-renowned journals, it is important to have both a credible editorial board and a rigorous peer review process as they help maintain and improve the impact of the papers that are published on a yearly basis. This presentation is targeted towards experienced authors who have a good grasp of the overall publication cycle but want more clarity regarding the

After the presentation, you will have more information about the following:

- Increased awareness of the peer review process in academic publishing
- Better knowledge of the various peer review models adopted by journals
- Awareness of fake peer reviews and related challenges for researchers and journals
- Understanding of the advantages of being a reviewer and the selection process followed by journals
- Knowledge of ethical practices that need to be followed by peer reviewers and journals
