

Description

Communicating research outcomes does not end with publishing a research paper. It is important to share key findings with the scientific community and general public using various engaging platforms. Researchers can explore Twitter, Facebook, LinkedIn, YouTube, Scholarly Communication Networks, etc. to increase the impact of visibility of their research.

To know more about effective platforms for promoting research, click here.

Category

1. Checklist

Date Created

2018/06/27

Author

daveishan