

I am writing a manuscript for empathy scale development and validation.

Author

Deen Mohd Dar

Post Url

<https://www.enago.com/academy/q/45207/i-am-writing-a-manuscript-for-empathy-scale-development-and-validation/>

I am writing a manuscript for my project on an empathy scale that I developed and collected data through a survey. I reached out to my friends, colleagues, and other individuals. My question is whether ethical approval is required for this study. I understand that studies involving human participants typically require ethical approval. In my institution, I worked with the institutional ethical committee, and they were initially resistant but eventually approved the study after several requests. However, I am curious if there is any alternative way to navigate this process.

Cite this article

Deen Mohd Dar, I am writing a manuscript for empathy scale development and validation.. Enago Academy. 2023/12/02. <https://www.enago.com/academy/q/45207/i-am-writing-a-manuscript-for-empathy-scale-development-and-validation/>