COMMUNICATION TIPS FOR RESEARCHERS

1

Listen carefully: Researchers speak a lot about their work, but frequently forget to listen. Remember, good speakers are always fantastic listeners! Feedback is critical.

2

Speak politely: Get your point across without using unprofessional language. Do not speak/reply impulsively.

3

Avoid bias: It is indeed critical to review each and every problem from various perspectives.

4

Communicate in a timely manner: A delayed response is as bad as an angry reaction. Responding in a timely manner can ensure professional success.

5

Pay attention to language/grammar: Using
